Torisee

焼き鳥

Yakitori Restaurant

SINCE 1966

The chicken dishes made with Kyushu brand chickens, along with high quality "Shinsei" sake from Kyoto's Fushimi are delicious.

In 1966, Isamu Kajiwara, the first generation owner, established Torisee in Kyoto's Shijo Kiyamachi area. Torisee is proud of the chicken dishes created after much polishing of Kyoto cuisine techniques. Since its founding, it has maintained its secret aged sauce for 50 years, and carefully grills its yakitori chicken skewers one by one. Strongly aromatic, tasty and juicy, the skewers go well with Fushimi's famous sake brands. Yakitori skewers of specially selected home-grown chicken, mainly from the Kyushu area, start from ¥140 and show the restaurant's uncompromising attention to brand chicken at reasonable prices. Besides yakitori, there is a wide variety of dishes, such as the well-known chicken rice (rice is covered with 8 ingredients of thin omelette strips, green onions, seaweed, shiitake mushrooms, chopped yellow pickled radish, ginger, steamed chicken and lemon, on which chicken stock is poured), roast duck slices, spicy deep-fried chicken, grilled mature chicken, and popular menu items from the restaurant's beginning, such as chicken croquettes and chicken rice porridge. The seasonal course dishes which include an all-you-can-drink option are very good value and highly recommended. English menus are also available.

The restaurants are conveniently located near the popular sightseeing spot of Nishiki food market as well as the Shijo Karasuma area.

↑ Sake is delivered directly from the brewery.

↑ The yakitori in its secret aged sauce go together well with sake fresh from the brewery.

↑ "Oyadori yaki" Mature chicken grilled with onions, garlic, black pepper, sesame and garlic oils that is a perfect dish to eat while drinking.

↑ "Onikara" deep-fried chicken with spicy hot chili powder, created to match Japanese sake.
